Is the photovoltaic panel installation project a scam

Overview

While there are some government-funded solar programs for households that qualify, “going solar” isn't free. Honest businesses will tell you exactly how much it'll cost to get and install solar panels. Did a salesperson knock on your door and promise free rooftop solar panels at no cost to you?

Or say you'll never have to pay another electricity bill because government programs, grants, or rebates cover your solar installation?

It's likely a scam. Scams, schemes and straight-up fraud abound in the dark underbelly of an otherwise light-filled industry. If you've received an offer for "free solar panels," it could be a scam. The criminals are leaving unsuspecting homeowners with massive debt; many victims have reported losing tens of. In the worst cases, homeowners have been left making payments on overpriced systems that don't work, with little to no support from the installation company that put the panels on their roof. Here's our guide to. While the best solar panels can offer significant benefits, including reduced energy costs and a smaller carbon footprint, the growing industry has unfortunately attracted its share of scammers and unethical companies.
