

Solar power investment scam

Overview

These scams start with an unexpected phone call, message on social, or even an in-person visit. Or they might try to sign you up for a “free” program to make your home more energy efficient with. Scams, schemes and straight-up fraud abound in the dark underbelly of an otherwise light-filled industry. While there are still many honest and reliable solar panel companies on the market, it can be hard to differentiate the good guys from the rest. One of the major risks of permitting fraud is. While reputable companies can help you save money with clean or solar energy improvements, scammers offer more than they can deliver. The right choice between purchasing, financing, or leasing depends on your. In the worst cases, homeowners have been left making payments on overpriced systems that don't work, with little to no support from the installation company that put the panels on their roof. At the same time, federal and state regulators have received an increase in consumer complaints about a small number of unscrupulous solar companies. People complain that they were deceived about costs and savings, misled about.
